'Let's revolutionise caring: inclusion, innovation, diversity'
Carers NSW Biennial Conference
21-22 May 2015
Novotel Sydney, Olympic Park

Call for abstracts

The constantly changing landscape of social welfare allows for an opportunity to remodel the way we think about creating positive outcomes for carers and their families. The Carers NSW 2015 Biennial Conference will bring together professionals from across the broad spectrum of carer related fields to explore the themes of inclusion, innovation and diversity.

Carers NSW is now inviting authors and presenters to submit abstracts for the conference, being held 21-22 May 2015.

Carers NSW CEO, Elena Katrakis said "As we head into 2015, where the social welfare sector is constantly shifting, we need to think about how carers and their families can be supported through government policy and reform and the evolution to person centred care."

"The challenge for policy makers and service providers in our current environment is to develop innovative initiatives that add to the value of carers and respect and promote inclusion and diversity."

Closing date for abstracts is 31 January 2015 and accepted abstracts will be confirmed by 20 February 2015.
