

Turn your caring skills into paid work

Flexible, local paid work opportunities in the disability sector

Do you look after a sibling, parent, partner or friend who lives with a disability, health condition or mental illness?

If you are:

- 16-25 years old
- Living in or near Coffs Harbour, Tamworth or Port Macquarie
- Looking for flexible, local paid work opportunities

You might be eligible for the Young Carer Skills Project!

Carers NSW is working with disability service providers to create flexible, local paid jobs for young people who have experience caring for a loved one at home.

If you choose to participate, you will be:

- matched with a paid job as a disability support worker that fits around your other commitments and responsibilities
- given career coaching and fee-free training opportunities to kick start your career, whether in the disability sector or another industry that interests you
